

Regression Analysis of Truncated Data

Zhiliang YING, Columbia University, USA, E-mail: zying@stat.columbia.edu

Abstract: I will give an overview about various methods for the linear regression model when the response variable is subject to truncation. Particular attention will be given to some recent developments when the truncation is complex. I will also discuss applications to biomedical and astronomical data.